Cubmaster Minute:

Living the Cub Scout Promise and the Law of the Pack is a big help in keeping a Webelos Scout mentally and physically strong. When a scout does their best to be cheerful, helpful, friendly... They will find that worries and irritations disappear. They will discover a feeling of success, confidence and excitement in his everyday life, A wise man once said, 'As a man thinketh in his heart, so he is!' When scouts 'think' themselves strong and do something about it, they are well on their way to being strong: Mental and emotional health are very important, they affect our ability to accept new challenges and responsibilities, and to get along with other people. We live in a world that is rapidly changing. To many people this is unsettling. For some it is like riding a bike. After a couple of falls, one could find himself bruised and decide not to continue. Most people continue and learn how to handle their bicycle. Meeting new challenges and accepting new responsibilities fall into this same category. A scout learns through experience; they develop skills and can proceed with reasonable confidence. True, sometimes they may find themselves literally dumped over the handlebars. But if they pick themselves up, checks to see what happened and why it happened, makes any necessary repairs, then they can proceed with more knowledge-knowledge gained through experience.

Camping Supplies

If you're new to camping, you're in a great state (Texas) as we've a wide assortment of options. Shopping for camping gear can be a daunting task... Frightening even... But rest easy... There are a lot of resources and few requirements for family camping. The biggest requirement is to be comfortable. No-one will require you to sleep on a pad under a tarp/lean-to. That is saved for older scouts and wilderness survival. Instead, bring that queen-sized air mattress, sheets, comfy blankets. Enjoy!

When it comes to tents, everyone has their preference and need. That is why there are so many different sizes and companies. A basic "cabin" tent can be found at Walmart for around $100. There are some newer designs called "tunnel" tents that I watched some families using recently. You've hexagon tents, dome tents, tents with large screened in vestibules (fancy word for front porch.) The point is you need to choose what is going to fit your space needs (a four-person tent is four sleeping bags side by side). I try to side on the larger size for comfort.

Next item is what to sleep upon. Again, don't dive headfirst unless you're really ready. I've had the air mattress and it worked great! I also have cots, which work just as well, but have less electrical need (or pump action).

Sleeping bags vs bedding. Again, depending on what you're most comfortable with. If you go the sleeping bag route, keep in mind that they all have temperature ratings. That number is not the "comfort" zone, but the "keep you alive" zone. Bring blankets to augment. Its easier to cool down in the night by removing a layer, not so easy to warm up if you've nothing to add. Been there, done that.

Last items.

Camping chairs... You're going to want to have a seat...

Mess kits. Yes, we're scouters. We try to not damage the environment. Mess kits are key. Now, you don't have to go out and spend a ton of money. Plastic plates and utensils all work the same. Watch for end-of-season sales at Kroger for plasticware. Or bump it up a notch with enameled steel. Every campout that the pack is on, we will have a washing station.

Water bottle and cup. Again, we're scouters. We don't want to create trash. Every scout should have a water bottle, and for adults who want coffee (I do, I do) an outdoor safe cup/mug.

Campout Safety Checklist

Camping is a long-honored tradition for many families, including the BSA family. Timing, supplies, and location should be determined ahead of time so you can make the most of your camping experience. There might be some instances where you overthink or underestimate a camping trip, but there are also many ways to enjoy the adventure, fun, discovery, and teamwork involved. A campout safety checklist will help to ensure these aspects of camping are accomplished while keeping you safe.

GENERAL INFORMATION

Camping can be enjoyable in almost any area—from the backcountry to summer camp, as well as national high-adventure bases, to name a few. When you decide on a camping trip, you need to consider who, what, where, when, how, and why.

Here are a few items to check off on your Campout Safety Checklist:

- Documentation Needed—This includes medical records, guidebooks, and permission slips. A Scout leader can ensure your safety as well as his or her own when you are both better informed of any limitations, hazards, or permissions.
- Training—General training, such as Youth Protection training, CPR/first aid, and Hazardous Weather, or specific training, such as Trek Safely or Wilderness First Aid, gives you the confidence to know what to do in the event of an emergency.
- Planning—Planning is important. Become familiar with your campsite location and do some research about the weather, licensing/permit requirements, and project or activity guidelines so you can be prepared.
- Equipment—Plan for vehicles involved or tools necessary for your camping experience. Also consider trailer requirements and first-aid or emergency kits.
- Emergency Planning—A prepared Scout is a confident Scout. Keep a cellphone handy as well as a list of local authorities (fire department, police, hospitals, etc.) in case an emergency occurs, such as inclement weather or a lost Scout. If you are in the backcountry, canyons, or a remote location, coverage may be one to two hours away. A GPS tracking/messaging device is helpful in these locations. For more information, visit REI.com
- Program—Know your program. There should be age-appropriate activities, safety equipment, proper supervision, and a discussion on potential hazards.
